Articles of Confederation while in Committee of the Whole Congress . . . . Frontispiece to Vol. IX
PREFATORY NOTE

The most important subject which engaged the Continental Congress in the year 1777 was the "Articles of Confederation," which after long consideration were laid before the States in November. The earlier forms of this instrument have been given in the volumes for 1776. By the reproduction in facsimile of a copy of the second printed version, with MS. notes and emendations, the story of the consideration is more clearly told than by the text of the Journals. The final changes and form are given in the parallel versions printed under November 15, 1777. The amendments proposed by Thomas Burke (printed under May 5), and the various reports and motions made from time to time, throw not a little light upon the spirit actuating some of the States, and point to the difficulties which were encountered in framing Articles that could be accepted by all of the thirteen separate and in a measure, independent, political entities.

The increasing financial pressure is shown by the report on the Treasury (printed under June 11), the resort to bills of exchange on the American Commissioners in France, and the demands on the part of some of the States to have Continental bills with which to redeem their own issues. The rising quantities of paper, issued by Continent and States, without adequate funds for their support, produced the natural consequences of high prices, distrust and depreciation, against which the legislative bodies were helpless. The lottery, loan-offices, and new emissions of bills served to increase the derangement of the currency and emphasize the difficulties of obtaining funds to meet the large and increasing expenditures incident to war.

The Address to the Inhabitants of the United States, prepared by James Wilson, is now published for the first time, as are the reports of the Committees to Camp (August 5 and December 16), and the reports and resolution on the correspondence between Generals Heath and Burgoyne (December 27). The numerous reports prepared by the Board of War and of the Treasury have given many paragraphs of interest, which were rejected or ordered to lie, and contain a few items concerning the jealousy of Washington on the part of some members of Congress and some officers in the army.

I have included a few extracts from the letters of Delegates to the Congress to the State authorities, because a collection of these letters is now being made by the Carnegie Institution.

The committee appointed to prepare instructions to Mr.
J. Allen, Indian agent for the eastern department, brought agreed to as follows:

Sir, Having been informed of your knowledge of, and acquaintance with, the tribes of Indians, inhabitants of St. John's and Nova Scotia, and, confiding in your zealous attachment to the interest of the united States, this Congress have made choice of you to be their agent, impowering you, in their behalf, to treat with those Indians, and as far as you shall be able, to engage their friendship, and prevent their taking a part on the side of Great Britain, in the unjust and cruel war against these united States:

You will explain to them, as clearly as their understanding of the nature and principles of civil government will admit of it, the grounds of the disputes between Great Britain and America, the pains that we have taken to settle those disputes on the rules of equity, and the necessity we were finally driven to, in defence of our liberty and lives, to resist our oppressors unto blood. Thus, by convincing them of the justice of our cause, you may attach them to our interests, and lay a solid foundation for lasting peace and friendship with us:

You will also inform them of the union that subsists among the people of these States, and the strength derived therefrom, to each of them: that viewing us in this light, they may see their own safety depending upon their peaceable disposition and behaviour towards us:

You are to cultivate trade with them; by which means, many great advantages which have heretofore from thence accrued to the subjects of Great Britain, will be gained by the people of these States:

And you are, in a particular manner, instructed to use your utmost diligence and influence to promote an intercourse and correspondence between those tribes and the Indians living in and about Canada; by the effecting of which, the most useful and necessary intelligence may be frequently obtained; and you are to give the earliest notice to Congress, and to General Washington, and the commanding officer at Ticonderoga, of such intelligence as you may receive:
You will, as often as you shall be required, exhibit to Congress a fair account of the expenditure of such monies as you may be intrusted with, for the purpose of your agency; together with a general state of affairs within your department, that Congress may avail themselves of it for the public good.

Resolved, That the sum of 900 dollars be annually allowed and paid to John Allen, Esq. during his continuance as agent of this Congress, to the Indians of St. John’s and Nova Scotia:

That 1,000 dollars be advanced to John Allen, Esq. to enable him to carry on the affairs of his agency among the Indians of St. John’s and Nova Scotia; he to be accountable for the same.

Resolved, That the sum of 533 1/3 dollars be advanced to the Board of War, for defraying the expences of sending the Hessian prisoners to Dumfries, and the prisoners in the guard house in Baltimore, to Leesburg, in Virginia, agreeable to the orders of Congress; the said Board to be accountable for the expenditure.

proceeded to Occoys, on the island of Hispaniola, and there put the cargo into the hands of Mons. Croix, who, by several letters, informed Mr. Carson that he should remit said Carson the proceeds of the flour to St. Eustatia; and, in a letter from said Carson, dated St. Eustatia, 30th November, is the following paragraph:—"I have not received one farthing on account of brig Olive Branch's cargo, and God knows when I will;" that Captain Bayly, after landing the flour at Occoys, made a voyage for Mons. St. Croix, to France, and back to Occoys, where the said Croix loaded the brig, and proceeded with her to this port, where they both are at this time, with the vessel, re-laden with provision, &c. and ready to depart for Occoys; that Captain Bayly pretends he has sold the brig to Mons. Croix, and has taken his single promissory note for payment; but, it is obvious, that they have been jointly trading on the public's capital, and defrauding both the public and the owners of the brig; that, with the proceeds of the cargo sold here, they have re-laden the brig with provisions, &c. and have a residue of £2500 cash in their hands:

Whereas Congress by their Resolution of the [10] of [October] last

Resolved (here insert it) It is now further resolved that not only all officers in the Quarter Master’s Department but all others in the service of the public be strictly prohibited from impressing; horses teams or carriages [ought to be impressed] but upon the most urgent necessity, and then only in aid of a constable or other civil officer, or some person deputed by a warrant from some magistrate, agreeable to the Laws of the State, where the same [are wanted and laws for that purpose are provided] is granted; and in such State where there are no magistrates or laws enacted for that purpose [by virtue of a warrant from a magistrate] from the Chairman or a member of the Committee of the County, city or district where the same are wanted: or in case the magistrate, (or in such State where there are no magistrates or Laws provided for that purpose) the Chairman or member of committee, shall upon proper application neglect or refuse to grant such warrant [cannot be obtained] and have the same executed, the commanding officer where such necessity shall happen may grant to his officers in the army warrants for that purpose, which they are to execute. In all which cases no more teams and carriages shall be impressed or employed in the service, than ten carriages capable of carrying one ton each, or other carriages [equivalent] sufficient for carrying so much for transporting the baggage of one whole and complete regiment, and so in the same proportion for a greater or lesser number of forces on their march; and also carriages sufficient for removing military stores and provisions, and for transporting the sick and wounded.

And if any officer of the army shall presume to impress horses teams or carriages, contrary to the directions above given, or suffer soldiers under his command to do the same, every officer so offending, upon due proof thereof by the oath or affirmation of two credible witnesses before any two magistrates, [in] of the County or town wherein such offence is committed shall [forfeit to the party injured such sums as said Magistrate shall order not exceeding twenty, or less than five dollars, which shall be paid by the Paymaster and deducted from the pay of such officer,] be cashiered and upon a certificate thereof under the hands of the said Magistrates together with certified copies of the depositions or affirmations of the witnesses proving such offence, being laid before the commanding officer of the army in such Department such offender shall thereupon be immediately dismissed from his office. Provided always that before any such depositions or affirmations are taken, the magistrate to whom complaint of such offence shall be made, or one of them shall send a notification thereof to the officer complained of acquainting him with the charge, and appointing a time and place for him to attend at the examination of such witnesses in order that he may be present and make his defence, and upon proof of such notice being given the said magistrates, may at the time and place so prefixed, proceed to take the depositions or affirmations aforesaid and certify the same as above directed.

And in order that a reasonable compensation be made for the service of all carriages employed or impressed as aforesaid: Resolved, That for every team and carriage capable of carrying [a ton weight,] a load usually carried by a waggon with four able horses, or a cart with oxen and horses, and which shall carry such loads [if required and] unless prevented as far in a day, as is usually practised by such teams in the country and season they are employed in, there be paid the customary wages usually paid for the hire of such teams at that time in the parts where they are employed, not exceeding four dollars per day from the time they are taken into the service until discharged, and twelve ninetieths of a dollar per mile returning home; and that for all carriages with two horses or a pair of oxen only, there be paid half the sum allowed for a carriage and four horses for the same time, and so in proportion for all other teams according to their abilities for service, upon performing the same when required; the owners of all such teams and carriages to find drivers and supply them with provisions and forage for their teams; and in case the same shall be furnished at the public expence the value thereof shall be deducted out of their pay, and no team impressed shall be detained longer than four days at a time from home until discharged.

And in order that carriages may be impressed when necessity requires it with as little damage to the public as possible, it is recommended to all magistrates or persons authorized to grant warrants for that purpose, when it can possibly be done to send into the Country for what may be wanted, and take the same at the owners house, so as by all means to avoid impressing such as may be found on the road carrying supplies of provisions or other articles of trade or commerce, either to the Army or to towns for the benefit of the Inhabitants, or returning from the same. And all those who shall hire waggons or carts for the public service, or at whose request the same are furnished by warrant or otherwise, shall be accountable for, and punctually pay the owners thereof the above mentioned rates or allowances when the same are discharged, [or if the officer is not furnished with money for that purpose, he shall give a certificate of the services done and the sums due therefore which shall be paid by any Continental Paymaster upon application and such certificate being produced.]¹

And no additional burthen shall be put on any carriage after the same is loaded as above, either by soldiers riding or placing their arms or packs thereon.

And it is further resolved that all regiments, Companies, or parties of soldiers on their march or in quarters shall be constantly attended by one or more officers of their corps who shall see that all the above regulations as far as the same respects the officers or soldiers are strictly complied with, and no injuries or irregularities of any kind committed as the commanding officer of every party marching or in quarters shall answer the neglect thereof with the forfeiture of his commission.

Ordered That the foregoing resolutions be printed and sent to the army, and that the printers of the several newspapers in the different States be desired to publish the same once every six months during the war to the end that all concerned may take due notice and govern themselves accordingly.

Resolved That it be recommended to the Legislatures of the several States, to make provision by law for furnishing teams and carriages for marching troops and other public service on reasonable terms by impressing or otherwise when necessary under such regulations, as that the public service may not suffer or be delayed, or the owners of teams or carriages injured.²

Resolved, That Colonel Henry Hollingsworth continue to supply the troops passing through the Head of Elk, with provisions at the usual rates.

A motion being made by Mr. [Abraham] Clark and seconded by Mr. [Jonathan Dickinson] Sergeant, Whereas General Washington, by his Proclamation of the 25th of January last, required all those who have subscribed the Declaration, taken the Oaths of Allegiance to the King of Great Britain, and accepted protection and certificates from Lord or General Howe, or any person acting under their Authority, forthwith to repair to head quarters, or to the quarters of the nearest general officers of the Continental Army, or Militia, until further provision can be made by the civil Authority; And therein grants full liberty to all such as prefer the Interest and Protection of great Britain to the freedom and happiness of their Country, forthwith to withdraw themselves and families within the Enemy’s Lines. Which Proclamation, may in some particular States, interrupt the due course of the Laws made therein for the trial and punishment of Traitors and other offenders against the peace and liberties of the same; For remedy whereof, Resolved, that the above mentioned Proclamation shall not in any wise take effect in such manner as to prevent the free exercise of the Laws or Regulations, enacted or provided in any of the United States, for the punishment of offenders within the same, or exempt any person from arrests and detention in Civil or Criminal Actions under Colour of the Liberty granted to withdraw themselves and families within the enemy’s lines; or in any instance to interfere with or oppose the free exercise of the Legislative or Executive powers of any State.¹

Congress took into consideration the report ||of the committee|| on the state of Georgia; Whereupon,

Resolved, That a supply of arms and cloathing for the continental batallions, there ||in Georgia,|| ought to be furnished as expeditiously as possible:

And, as that State is in the neighbourhood of numerous and powerful nations of Indians, it is an object of important consideration, to cultivate their friendship and secure peace with them; and this is rendered more necessary by the contiguity of those Indians to the colonies of East and West Florida, from whence the agents of the king of Great Britain are perpetually stimulating the savages to make war upon the people of Georgia; therefore,

Resolved, That the Secret Committee be directed to procure, for the defence of Georgia, a supply of arms and cloathing for the continental forces raised as the quota of that State, and that they also procure goods for carrying on the Indian trade to the amount of ten thousand dollars, in addition to the 20,000 dollars advanced by the Secret Committee, to Mr. [Button] Gwinnett, for that purpose, which goods may be delivered either at Charles-town, in South Carolina, or in Georgia, for the use of the continental Indian commissioners of the southern department, to be employed in securing the friendship of the southern Indians.

"In this Debate the States fully represented insisted on the Exceptions that, it might appear they had no need of a Memento. Several other States insisted that no state ought to be permitted to Commit a Vote in the General Council of the States to less than three. That less nor even that Number would supply Committees it was Answered to the first that every State had made her representation as best Suited her Circumstances, that many were unable to spare or support one more Numerous. that each was best Judge how many of her citizens She would Trust, and to what length she would Trust them, that there was no need of publicly calling on them for a representation more full because they had already wished the same thing but "That the weight and Trust were certainly too great for any one person but it was an evil that could not at present be remedied, and therefore it must be born, that requiring three to form a Quorum would Embarass several states and leave such States often without any representation at all, because if any Accident prevented the attendance of one, the Vote was Necessarily lost, and any state would prefer a Vote by one of her Delegates rather than No Vote at all

"North Carolina having only one Delegate present urged that the arguments [ ] at the Insufficiency of One Delegate for so Important a Trust were sensibly felt by the Delegate who already tho' but a very few days in Congress found his Experience and abilities far Inferior to his Duty, but this was not the fault of his Country who could not prevail on her abler men to undertake a Business so arduous and Inconvenient. that She had Indeed appointed three but never Expected that they should be always in Service at Once, because the absence was too long from their private Families and Affairs, and She had not Funds to support a greater Number, that One who Expected to have been here was prevented by Illness. the other had Just departed and after a long attendance was permitted to return home that the Single Representation of that State was the Misfortune of the Delegate on whom all Incompetent as he is, the burthen of so high a Trust had fallen and also the misfortune of his Country who in the absence of his more able Colleagues could not be so well served. that Considering it as a matter which each state had an Exclusive right to Judge of the Delegate could not agree that Congress should at all Interfere with it, that having Just informed the Congress that one of the [ ] permitted by his Country to return, and that the [ ] that only two would be in service the Delegate considered the Amendment relative to three is [as] implying a Censure on his Country and he must therefore protest against it—The Intention to Censure was disclaimed." “Motion for offering 6 per cent in the Loan Office.
For it,—was agreed the necessity of money for carrying on the war, which four per cent had not yet procured, the expediency of borrowing on this interest to prevent further emissions, and of alluring moneyed men to embark in our interest. Against it.—that the public, being the only borrower, must get the money at the interest already offered, if there was any to be lent; that those who withheld money, only did it in hopes our necessity would compel us to give a higher interest, and that they would withhold it as long as they had any prospect of forcing us to offer higher interest: that the interest would be a heavy and unequal burthen on the State, because those who now possess the money would lay the rest under a heavy tax under the name of interest; that there was little money to be borrowed, because men speculated and found they could lay it out to better advantage; that the necessity for money made it more expedient to seek a more certain resource. The delegate of North Carolina could not be satisfied that Loan Office certificates, and bills of credit, where both had the same security for their redemption, were not in effect the same thing; he therefore thought Loan certificates another emission in bills of another denomination, with this unjust inequality, that one part of the community would thereby be taxed for the others. He also thought that much money would not be borrowed on them at any interest, unless it was for the more convenient purposes of exchange, and he thought it would give our enemies too convenient a machine for affecting our hopes and fears. He would vote against a Loan altogether if it were now the question, and the same reasons induced him to vote against the increase of interest. Question put, Aye 5; no, 5. Aye, New Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia. No—Rhode Island, Connecticut, North Carolina, Georgia, S. Carolina.” Burke’s Abstract of Debates. North Carolina Colonial Records, XI, 389.

“Febly 8th. An adjournment to Philadelphia was moved for and postponed A Resolve was moved for offering 6 per cent. Interest in the Loan Office the Debate took up greatest part of the Day, and the determination was postponed at the request of Connecticut.

“The Arguments chiefly were that money was absolutely Necessary for carrying on the War, that four per cent which was already offered could not procure it and it was therefore Necessary to Increase the Interest. that this mode was more eligible than a farther Emission because it would draw out of Circulation that superfluous quantity which occasioned the Rise of all prices. that the allowing monied men to embark in one Common Interest with the other orders of men would greatly add to the Security of our Independence.

"In answer it was urged that the Offering a higher Interest would not more certainly procure the money. for those who had it to lend would find no borrower but the public— and those who had not could not lend it on any Interest that the Interest would be an Accumulating Debt (if it could be borrowed) under which the Country must Sink. that the States would be very unequally burthened because those who now possessed the greater part of the Money would lay the other States under a heavy Tax to them under the name of Interest, that [ ] there were in the Country no money Lenders [ ] man found that every day's Occurrences [ ]

"Opportunities of laying out his money to much greater advantage, that however Necessary the money might be it was still the more Necessary to fall on some Expedient that might procure it with certainty, that the Increase of Interest having been tried in many States without Effect very clearly proved money was not to be borrowed. North Carolina urged that it was a clear Truth that money was Necessary, it was equally clear that it was advisable to prevent further Emissions and to reduce the quantity in circulation if it was possible to Effect it. the Delegate declared that when he offered his thoughts before that Illustrious assembly he did it with the greatest Diffidence and deference that he should not trouble them with any on so abstruse and Intricate a Subject as the present, but that he perceived the matter had not Struck any other in the same point of View that it did him, that he felt himself Oppressed with the weight of the Question, and having the misfortune Singly to have the vote of one State to give he wished to do it on Established Principles, and the clearest conviction, be therefore beged their Indulgence and candor if he should offer objections which had been answered in some former Debates (for there had been many on that Subject) which he had not the Good fortune to Hear.

"He urged that he had not been able to derive any Satisfactory Information from the Debate that the money could be had by way of Loan on any Interest, or that money raised by way of Loan would not be a further Emission in Effect, that he perceived there were few or no money lenders in the Country. that Farmers and Gentlemen speculated, and reserved their [ ] for purchases, and Merchants, always relied on employing." A letter, of the 6, from General Mifflin, was read;²
Whereupon,
Resolved, That 450,000 dollars be sent to General Mifflin, in lieu of a like sum ordered to be paid him by a draught on Mr. T. Smith, commissioner of the loan office, in the State of Pennsylvania; and that the Board of Treasury use their utmost endeavours in preparing and forwarding this sum.

¹“Of the political principle of the respective States I am not yet able to speak very clearly, for they are kept as much as possible out of view. I conjecture, however, that all are under some apprehensions of combination in the Eastern States to derive to themselves every possible advantage from the present war, at the expense of the rest. I am not yet satisfied that there is any combination amongst them, I rather think that they only combine when they have one common interest, which is seldom the case, and I am sure this is not peculiar to them. On some late questions I observed they divided: one was relative to the interest to be paid on loans, another relative to the meeting of several States. In the sequel of this letter I mean to give you an abstract of the debates on these questions, and therefore shall say no more of them here. But, sir, I am more concerned to find that Pennsylvania, Maryland, Jersey and some others are exceedingly jealous of the states whose bounds to the westward are yet unascertained, and I am much mistaken if they do not upon all occasions endeavour to fix very extensive power in a mere majority of Congress in order to get resolutions unfavorable to the claims of such states entered into. To be more explicit, I believe they will endeavour by degrees to make the authority of Congress very extensive, and when it shall be fully established and acknowledged, to make such a party in it as will pass resolves injurious to the rights of those states who claim to the South Seas. You will see by some matters in the abstract of debate which I shall subjoin that this conjecture is not quite void of foundation. I am clearly of opinion at all events that those states who, like ours, have such claims should be explicit in declaring they will give no power to their Delegates to bind them in any thing that regards their Bounds. I am not yet able to be particular with respect to the measures intended to be pursued.” Thomas Burke to Governor Caswell, Baltimore, 10 February, 1777. North Carolina Colonial Records, XI, 376.

Resolved, that it be recommended to the Legislatures of the several States to provide as soon as possible, by law, That if any person shall harbor conceal or assist any deserter from the land or Sea Service, knowing him to be such, the person so offending shall forfeit for every such offence, ten dollars, or if any person shall knowingly detain, buy or exchange, or otherwise receive, any arms, horse, cloaths or other furniture, belonging to the United States, from any soldier, trooper,

Congress resumed the consideration of the report of the committee on the proceedings of the committees from the four New England States, and after debate,

4 "Yesterday was consumed in desultory debates upon a report of a special committee upon the proceedings of the four New England Governments above mentioned, and it was re-committed. This day it was brought in under a form agreeable to what was the sense of the House on what was yesterday considered. At first it expressed the opinion of Congress, that the proceedings were founded in justice, policy and necessity, and merited the warmest approbation. The second declared neither approbation or opinion, except particularly relating to the New England Governments, because of their peculiar circumstances, but proposed laying it before the other States for their imitation if they thought proper, avoiding as much as possible any expression that might suggest to the States that Congress approved or disapproved. In this form it passed without a negative, and it was voted that several States should be advised to confer with each other on this subject: viz: New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Virginia: North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia. Nothing very remarkable happened in this debate except that Virginia insisted on being connected with Maryland, and refused to be connected with

The delegates present from Virginia were Richard Henry Lee, Francis Lightfoot Lee and Man. Page, all residing on Rapahanock and Potomack rivers. The Delegates from North Carolina represented that great part of the exportation of North Carolina was through Virginia, that her market was therefore in that State, and that she ought undoubtedly to be consulted in regulating the prices since she was so much interested therein that it was unjust and ungenerous in Virginia to endeavour to regulate them without her, and evidently shewed she was willing to do what would affect the interest of North Carolina without her knowledge or consent. Virginia persisted, and the vote passed for her conferring with Maryland &c. The question was now proposed for the conference of the Southern States; the Delegates opposed it, alleging that their articles of exportation would be always very low, by reason of the danger and difficulty of exporting: that none had provisions to spare but North Carolina, and her market for them being chiefly to Virginia she was precluded from regulation in that article by the regulation made in Virginia, of which as she would have no notice she could not accomodate herself thereto, and her Delegate declared she had too much vigilance and sagacity to make regulation since it might preclude her from taking advantage of circumstances to defend herself from the injustice of her neighbor Virginia: that since Virginia chose to confer with other States in making regulations which might affect North Carolina, and refused to confer with her where her interest was so nearly concerned, Virginia was entitled to no attention from North Carolina, and she ought to have it in the power of her citizens to avail themselves of all advantages which circumstances might throw in their way. The question put, all voted for the conference of the Southern States except their own Delegates. R. H. Lee privately told the Delegate from North Carolina that he need not be disturbed on this occasion, because Virginia could make no regulation but what must affect herself. The Delegate replied that it was arrogantly assuming to judge of her affairs, and affect them without her consent: it was taking advantage of her situation to be arbiter of the commerce of North Carolina, and it was shewing an entire disregard to her interest and circumstances, and leaving them entirely to depend on the decisions of the Northern States, without even being consulted. The Delegate declared he thought this such an instance of contempt and disregard in Virginia, that he could not but receive it with indignation.” Burke’s Abstract of Debates, North Carolina Colonial Records, XI, 391.

“At present, nothing but executive business is done, except the Confederation, and on more executive business there are seldom any debates; (and still more seldom any worth remembering.) We have agreed to three articles: one containing the name: the second a declaration of the sovereignty of the States, and an express provision that they be considered as retaining every power not expressly delegated; and the third an agreement mutually to assist each other against every enemy. The first and latter passed without opposition or dissent, the second occasioned two days debate. It stood originally the third article; and expressed only a reservation of the power of regulating the internal police, and consequently resigned every other power. It appeared to me that this was not what the States expected, and, I thought, it left it in the power of the future Congress or General Council to explain away every right belonging to the States and to make their own power as unlimited as they please. I proposed, therefore an amendment, which held up the principle, that all sovereign power was in the States separately, and that particular acts of it, which should be expressly enumerated, would be exercised in conjunction, and not otherwise; but that in all things else each State would exercise all the rights and power of sovereignty, uncontrolled. This was at first so little understood that it was some time before it was seconded, and South Carolina first took it up. The opposition was made by Mr. Wilson of Pennsylvania, and Mr. R. H. Lee of Virginia: in the end, however, the question was carried for my proposition, eleven ayes, one no, and one divided. The no was Virginia; the divided, New Hampshire. I was much pleased to find the opinion of accumulating powers to Congress so little supported, and I promise myself, in the whole business I shall find my ideas relative thereto nearly similar to those of most of the States. In a word, Sir, I am of opinion, the Congress should have power enough to call out and apply the common strength for the common defense: but not for the partial purposes of ambition. We shall next proceed to the structure of the common Councils; and here, I think, we shall meet with difficulties of the most arduous nature. The inequality of the States, and yet the necessity of maintaining their separate independence, will occasion dilemmas almost inextricable. You shall, Sir, know the whole progress of the matter if I can conceive and convey it with sufficient clearness."

"Since my last we have made no progress in the business of Confederation. A difficulty occurs, which, I fear, will be insuperable: that is how to secure to each State its separate independence, and give each its proper weight in the public Councils. So unequal as the States are, it will be nearly impossible to effect this: and after all it is far from improbable that the only Confederation will be a defensive Alliance. Nothing of importance has been determined in Congress, except what is merely executory.

"In one of my letters I believe I mentioned that Georgia was of no use in Congress but to vote with Connecticut. This was owing I believe to this circumstance, only one Delegate was then present, who is by birth a Connecticut man. Since then a Mr. Walton has given his attendance, which was before interrupted by illness; and I perceive that Georgia is now frequently divided when any question related to Colonial politics, so that these two Delegates are of different principles or different judgments."

own private affairs.

Resolved, That 6,000 dollars be paid to Christopher Richmond, and charged to the account of Brigadier W.
Smallwood, for the purpose of paying off the arrearages

\(^1\)“Several days of this week were consumed in debates on the appointment of General Officers. The debates were perplexed, inconclusive and irksome. The Delegates of several States were desirous of fixing a rule of promotion, and several were offered and rejected. Maryland, Virginia, and North Carolina desired that each State should recommend officers in proportion to the men they furnish: three Battalions, one Brigadier, nine [?], one Major General. This was rejected. It was then proposed, to promote General Officers as they stood in rank, and rejected. To all the rules a saving was added, that the Congress might deviate from any, in favour of merit eminently distinguished and generally acknowledged.

“North Carolina argued that some rule should be observed, and entered on the Journals. That the Congress would be an object of very jealous apprehension, unchecked and unlimited as it is, if the officers of the army held their honor at the precarious pleasure of a majority. Officers hold their honor the most dear of anything. Setting them aside when they were entitled to promotion would wound that honour very sorely. Their attention would therefore be entirely to that authority which had so much power to wound it, or to cherish it. This policy was always observed by monarchs, and the end was to keep the army dependent on them: but such policy was unbecoming in Congress, who ought to give no room for jealousy.
The rule of succession is most familiar to officers, and therefore most agreeable to them: but the proportion would give greatest satisfaction to the States, and the sat-sifying them was of greatest importance and ought to be adopted.

“At length it was proposed to resolve, that regard be had to the rank, to the quota, and to merit. It was agreed to, but no notice was taken of it in the nomination or appointments. N. Carolina did not vote for Major Generals; because the delegate found, no rule was observed, and he knew nothing of the merit of any officers in nomination, and did not choose to give a vote in Congress, for which he could give no reason.” Burke’s Abstract of Debates in Congress. North Carolina Colonial Records,

February, 1777

The committee, to whom the copy of the letter from General Howe to General Washington was referred, brought in a report, which was taken into consideration; \[Whereupon,\]

Resolved, That the Board of War be directed immediately to order the five Hessian field officers and Lieutenant Colonel Campbell into safe and close custody; it being the unalterable resolution of Congress to retaliate on them the same punishment as may be inflicted on the person of General Lee:

That, to manifest to all the world how averse Congress are to this severe, but necessary measure, which alone can teach our cruel enemies to regard the laws of nations and the rights of humanity; and that Congress not only lament, but would willingly avoid the necessity of this just retaliation,

Ordered, That the Board of War transmit to each of the Hessian officers and Colonel Campbell, copies of the resolve of Congress of the 6th of January, of such part of General Washington's letter of the 13th, and of General Howe's answer thereto, of the 23 of January, as relates to General Lee: and inform those officers that the conduct of General Howe alone induces Congress to treat them in a manner so very different from that which has ever been shewn to all other the prisoners of war of these States; and that, if any of them think proper to write on this subject to the British or Hessian general, that the letter shall be transmitted by a flag.\(^1\)

\(^1\) "A Committee on a letter from General Howe to General Washington reported, that five Hessian Field Officers, and a Col. Campbell should be confined in order for retaliation, and that they should have copies of the resolutions and letters relative to this matter, in order to manifest the reluctance of Congress to this severity; which became necessary, being the only means whereby they could teach their enemies to regard the Law of Nations and the rights of humanity. Some severe epithets were prefixed to enemies in the report, and they were objected to as unbecoming the dignity of Congress. A debate ensued in which some Gentleman

The committee on ways and means for supplying the treasury, and supporting the credit of the continental currency, brought in a report, which was read:

The Committee appointed to consider of Ways and Means for supplying the Treasury and supporting the credit of the continental currency, Report as their Opinion,

That a Sum not less than Sixteen Million dollars in addition to the sums already ordered will be necessary for the Services of the current year, that to make the necessary supplies by Taxes and Loans will pointed out the impropriety of a bold figurative style in public Instruments, and the beauty and propriety of simplicity. R. H. Lee, of Virginia (as usual) insisted strongly on retaining the epithets, because they expressed only what our enemies really are, and urged that the best writers always used such terms on the like occasions. The Delegate from North Carolina observed that simplicity of style was true beauty and dignity, in the language of public bodies. Embellishments of splendid epithets and figures, if proper at all, were only for rhetoricians and such as write for amusement. He wished our energy might appear in our actions, and that our language might be simple and unadorned. He admired the peasants of Switzerland, who, in their struggles for freedom, were as remarkable for modesty in their language as for vigor in their exertions. He wished the Congress to imitate them in both. The exceptional passages were expunged. The debate now turned on the question whether the Law of Nations was proper to be mentioned. Some Gentlemen argued that it was improper to apply it to the proceedings against General Lee, because they proposed trying him by the laws of his country; but others insisted that they had no power to try him, more than any other prisoner by those laws. Many distinctions were attempted, which I did not understand. At length the N. Carolina Delegate declared, he thought all laws ought to be laid aside, but what both parties were equally subject to: these were only the laws of Nature and Nations. The municipal laws of all countries at war were silent with respect to the mere transactions, that related to or were the consequence of war. It was the proper policy of Britain still to regard the Americans as subjects, and to insist on the execution of the municipal laws: but it was the proper policy of America to maintain that the American States stand in no other relation to Britain, than as an independent Empire at war with her; and therefore, that the Law of Nations alone ought to be observed between them. Retaliation is the only instrument whereby nations can compel the observance of that law, and America ought therefore firmly to retaliate when the Law of Nations was violated.—The 'Law of Nations' was inserted.”

Ordered, To lie on the table.

Congress taking into consideration the letter of the 10th from General Lee;\textsuperscript{2} Thereupon, \textsuperscript{1}This report is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 147, I, folio 85.

\textsuperscript{2}“A Letter from General Lee, requesting a Committee of Congress to be sent to New York, to whom he might, with permission of Lord and General Howe, impart something of great consequence to himself, and of no less, in his opinion to the public. His letter was in very pressing terms. It was the general sense of Congress that no conference ought to be held with any but Ambassadors properly authorized by the Court of Britain to treat of peace; that Lord and General Howe could have no powers on such a subject by virtue of their commission, which was particularly limited by Parliament to other purposes: that any conference with them would be impolitic and degrading: degrading, because their powers supposed Congress objects of their dominion, and even of their mercy: impolitic, because it would give opportunity for representing in the Courts of Europe that Congress were in Treaty with Britain for a reconciliation, and for some time suspend, by this means, their intentions of befriending us. But it was also agreed that the Congress ought to give every possible attention to General Lee’s personal safety. The Resolution was passed of directing General Washington to inform General Lee of the measures they were taking for his safety, and to request him to inform them of any thing they could further do: but that they could not think it consistent with the dignity of Congress to send a committee to treat with him on public business.” Burke’s Abstract of Debates. North Carolina Colonial Records, XI, 382.
Resolved, That General Washington be directed to inform General Lee, that Congress are pursuing, and will continue to pursue, every means in their power to provide for his personal safety, and to obtain his liberty:

That General Washington inform him of the steps taken to effect these purposes, and, at the same time, acquaint him, that Congress cannot see the propriety of sending a judge it altogether improper to send any of their members to communicate with him, and that they cannot perceive how a compliance with his request will tend to his advantage or the interest of the public.

Congress proceeded to the election of brigadiers general and the ballots being taken, the following gentlemen were elected. (It being previously agreed that their rank be settled after the election is made.)

Resolved, That the rank of the foregoing brigadiers general, and that of Brigadier General Nash, be appointed settled to morrow.

Whereas Carriages ought not to be impressed but upon the most urgent necessity,

Resolved, for the better and more regular provision of carriages for the forces of the United States, in their marches, or for their arms, clothes, accoutrements, baggage, military stores, and provision, sick and wounded, that it be recommended to the Legislatures of the several States to provide, as soon as possible by law, that any Justice of the peace within any County, City, town, or district, when thereunto required by an order from the Commander in Chief, or any general, field, or commissioned officer, or by the adjutant general, Quarter Master General, or any of his Deputies, or by the Quarter Master of any Battalion, detachment, troop or company, ordered to march, shall, as often as such order is brought unto him, issue out his warrant, to any one or more of the constables of the County, hundred, city, town, or district, from, through, near or to which, such regiment, detachment, troop or company, shall be ordered to march; requiring them to make such provision for carriages, with able men to drive the same, as is mentioned in the said warrant, allowing them sufficient time to do the same, that the neighboring parts may not always bear the burden, and directing them not to take any carriage carrying provisions, or articles of commerce to the army, or any City, town, or place, for the benefit of the inhabitants, or on their return. And in case sufficient carriages cannot be provided as aforesaid, within any such County, hundred, city, town, or district, then any justice of the peace, of any of the neighboring Counties, Cities, towns, or districts may and shall, upon such order, as aforesaid, being produced to him, by any of the officers aforesaid, issue his warrant, to any one or more of the Constables of such places respectively for the purposes aforesaid, to make up such deficiency: and if any Justice shall wilfully neglect or refuse, on such request as aforesaid, to grant such warrant, or if any constable shall wilfully neglect or refuse to execute such warrant in the most speedy and effectual manner, or if any person required or appointed by such constable to provide and furnish any carriage and driver, shall refuse or neglect to provide the same, or any other person shall wilfully do any act or thing, whereby the execution of such warrant shall be hindered, delayed or frustrated, every such justice, constable, or other person so offending shall for every such offence, forfeit not exceeding forty, nor less than ten dollars, to be recovered and applied as each respective State shall direct, one moiety thereof to the use of the poor of the Parish, or County, hundred, City or town, where any such offence shall be committed, and the other half to the informer, and any one Justice of the Peace of the County, City, Town, or District where such offence shall be committed may hear and determine the same, and cause the said penalty to be levied on the offenders person, goods or chattels. And if any Justice or constable shall refuse or neglect his duty, whereby the service may be injured, and necessity shall require and not admit of any delay, the officer commanding the Regiment, detachment, troop or company may grant to any Constable or commissioned officer, his warrant in the same manner as the justice to provide carriages and drivers as aforesaid.

And to prevent dispute about the number of carriages, which shall be employed or impressed in the service, the price to be allowed, and the load and distance they are to travel, or be carried from home; that no officer shall require more than ten Carriages, carrying one ton each, for the baggage of a complete regiment, and in the same proportion for the baggage of a greater or lesser number of forces, on their march, or such number of other carriages as may be equal to such ten carriages. And no officer shall require more carriages for removing military stores and provisions and for transporting the sick and wounded, than shall be sufficient for such service: That there be allowed and paid to the owner of every carriage, when discharged, carrying one ton, if required, and travelling twenty miles in one day, if so required the customary hire for such carriages in the place employed or hired, not exceeding four dollars for every day, while in the service, and so in proportion for any carriage carrying a greater or a less load, or travelling a greater or a less distance in a day; [but if any carriage shall be laden with less than a ton, and capable if required to carry that burthen, and shall be able to travel with such a load twenty miles in a day, if required and shall be detained or delayed no deduction shall be made from the full price.]¹

That there be allowed and paid to the owner of every carriage capable of carrying a ton, twenty miles in a day, when discharged twelve ninetieths of a dollar for every mile from the place of discharge to the home of the owner thereof, and so in proportion to the owner of any carriage capable of carrying a less burthen and travelling a less distance; The owner of every carriage finding an able driver and supplying the driver and horses with provision and forage; but if provided at public expense the value thereof to be deducted out of the pay, and no carriage shall be carried more than four days journey from the home of the owner thereof.

That if any military officer, or officers for the use of whose troop any carriage shall be provided, shall force and constrain any carriage to carry more than one ton, or to travel more than twenty miles in one day, or shall not discharge the same, when carried four days journey from home, or shall suffer any non commissioned officer or soldier (except such as are sick and unable to travel) or any women or servants, or any other person attending the army, to ride in the carriage, or shall force any constable by any threats, to provide saddle horses for themselves or servants, or shall force horses from the owners by themselves, servants or soldiers, or shall employ or shall by warrant as aforesaid, impress any carriage otherwise than in the manner and proportion, and according to the directions above prescribed, every such officer, for every such offence, shall forfeit not more than twenty nor less than five dollars, proof being made thereof by the oath of two credible witnesses, before any justice of the peace of the County, City, town, or District where the offence shall be committed, either to the injured person or such injured person and the informer, in such manner and proportion as the justice shall adjudge, and the justice shall commit the offender, if present, till payment, and if absent shall certify the same to the paymaster of the Department where such offence shall happen who shall pay the same according to the order and appointment of the Justice and deduct the same out of the officers pay.

And to prevent any dispute about the passage over ferries, and the price therefor—Resolved that it be recommended to the Legislatures of the several States to provide as soon as possible by Law, that where any troops, or baggage shall pass, or be carried over any regular public or County ferry in any of the United States, It shall be lawful for the Commanding officer either to pass with his troop, as passengers, or to hire the ferry boat entire to himself and his party, debarring others for that time, in his option; and in case he shall choose to take passage for himself and party as passengers, he shall only pay for himself, and each person under his command, half of the ordinary or usual rate payable by single persons at any such ferry, and a rea-

And in case he shall hire the ferry boat for himself and party, he shall pay half of the ordinary rate or hire for such boat, or boats, and in such places where there are no regular ferries, but all passengers hire boats at the price they can agree for, officers with or without parties are to agree for boats, at the same rate as other persons in like cases.

Whereas it may be some time before such laws can be made, and the public service in the mean time may suffer great damage. Resolved that the mode and directions prescribed in the above recommendations to the officers of the army shall be obeyed by them under the penalties therein directed, and whenever carriages shall be wanted for the use of the army application shall always be made by some one of the officers aforesaid to some justice of the peace for his warrant, and where there is no magistrate to the Chairman or a member of the Committee of the County, City or district, where the same shall be wanted, who are requested to grant their warrant in the same manner as a Justice of the peace, and if any justice, chairman, or member of a Committee shall refuse or neglect to grant such warrant, or any constable shall refuse or neglect to execute the same, in such case, the officer commanding any Regiment, detachment, troop or company may issue his warrant to any constable or commissioned officer to provide carriages and drivers in the same manner as a justice of the peace and such warrant shall be executed and obeyed.

Ordered that copies of the above resolutions be sent to the several Legislatures, and to General Washington, and be published in the several Newspapers of these States.

Ordered, That all regiments companies or parties of soldiers on their march or in quarters shall be constantly attended by one or more officers of their corps, who shall see that all the above regulations as far as the same respects the officers or soldiers are strictly complied with, and no injuries or irregularities of any kind committed, as the commanding officer of every party marching or in quarters shall answer the neglect thereof with the forfeiture of his commission.¹

Palfrey, pay master general, in favour of Levin Joynes, dated 10 February, 1777, and endorsed by the said Joynes to Captain S. Woodson, and by Captain S. Woodson to the said Lieutenant H. Martin.

\(^1\)The letter from General Ward is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 78, XXIII, folio 335. That of the Philadelphia committee is in No. 137, Appendix, folio 181; that of Washington, in No. 152, III, folio 583. It is printed in Writings of Washington (Ford), V, 240. The letter of Walton is in No. 78, XXIII, folio 373.
Resolved, That the letter from the committee of Congress, and that from General Washington, be referred to a committee of the whole:

Congress, then, resolved itself into a committee of the whole to consider the letters from the Committee of Congress and from General Washington; and, after some time spent thereon, the president resumed the chair; and Mr. [Benjamin] Harrison reported, that the committee have had under consideration the letters to them referred, and have come to sundry resolutions, which he was ready ordered to lay before Congress when they were ready to receive them.

Ordered, That the report be received.

The resolutions reported from the committee of the whole being read, ||and the question put on each,|| were agreed to as follows:

Resolved, That General Washington be informed, that it will be agreeable to Congress, that he call over to him, such farther aid from the troops under General Heath, as he shall think proper, and that he order all the continental troops that are at Providence, immediately to join him:

That the convention of New York be desired to place as many militia on the Highlands as may be sufficient to defend those passes against any attempts of the enemy, during the absence of the regular troops.

And, in order farther to strengthen the hands of the General,

Resolved, That the Board of War be directed to send letters by express to the colonels or other commanding officers of the several regiments, now raising and recruiting in the States of Pensylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia, ordering them immediately to march the troops inlisted under their command, by companies and parts of companies, to join the army under General
Washington; proper officers being left behind, to recruit the companies or corps that are not yet compleated, and to bring up the recruits:

That General Washington be directed to write similar letters to the colonels or other commanding officers of the regiments now raising and recruiting in the states of New Hampshire, Massachusetts bay, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, and New Jersey, excepting such regiments as he shall destine for the service in the northern department:

That the governor of New Jersey be requested to order the militia of that State properly armed and equipped, immediately to join the General; and that the council of safety of Pensylvania be also requested to send to the aid of the General, such of their militia, properly armed and equipped, as are contiguous to New Jersey. It being the earnest desire of Congress, to make the army under the immediate command of General Washington, sufficiently strong, not only to curb and confine the enemy within their present quarters, and prevent them from drawing support of any kind from the country, but, by the divine blessing, totally to subdue them before they can be reinforced.¹

N. York was requested to send detachments of their militia to supply the place of General Heath. New Jersey and Pennsylvania were also requested to reinforce the General with militia. To this resolve was subjoined a declaration of Congress, 'that it was their intention to reinforce the General so as to enable him not only to curb and confine the enemy within their present quarters, but, with the blessing of God, entirely to subdue them before they are reinforced.' condemned by some Gentlemen, as an unworthy gasconade and it was warmly debated. North Carolina observed that threats were unbecoming a private Gentleman, and much more unbecoming a public body: that this pompous boast, if not realized, would render the Congress exceedingly ridiculous, and there was great reason to fear it would not; that our vigour ought to appear by efforts not words; that at best it was a useless superfluity, and ought to be expunged. Jersey, Pennsylvania, North Carolina and South Carolina voted for expunging: the four Eastern States, Virginia, Georgia, for retaining. There appeared, through this whole debate, a great desire in some of the Delegates of the Eastern States, and in one of New Jersey, to insult the General. Ordered, That the committee who brought in the report, carry this resolution into execution, and take such security of them, for the faithful observance of their parole, as the said committee think proper:

Congress having received information that a quantity of woolens hath been brought into the port of Baltimore, by a privateer belonging to the State of New York, which are fit for the army, and immediately necessary for clothing and supplying the new raised levies;

Ordered, To lie on the table.

Congress took into consideration the report of the Committee on Deserters; and, thereupon, came to the following resolution:

To the end, that the most speedy stop may be put to the pernicious and unsoldierly practice of deserting, and that such offenders who receive the public money for services that they design not to perform, may be certainly and speedily carried back to the corps they have deserted from, it is earnestly recommended to the committees of observation or inspection in these united States, that they cause diligent enquiry to be made, in their respective counties or districts, for all deserters that may be lurking and harboured therein, and cause such, whenever found, to be immediately secured, and conveyed to the nearest

It is without date, and has 1776 endorsed upon it, as has also the manuscript of the report printed under October 17, 1777, post. continental officer; and all such officers are hereby directed to receive and secure such deserters, that they may be safely delivered to their respective regiments, and brought to a speedy trial and exemplary punishment; and farther, to pay to the persons delivering such deserters, eight dollars for each deserter so brought and delivered, and twelve ninetieths of a dollar in lieu of expences for every mile from the place where the deserter was taken up to the place where he is delivered to the officer.

Ordered, That the foregoing resolve, and the 1st, 2d, and 3d articles of the 6th section of the articles of war, be published in the several news papers for six months, and also, that 300 copies be printed in hand bills, and sent to camp, to be distributed among the officers. 1

Two officers of the 2d and 7th Virginia batallions, who were left to bring up the baggage of their respective batallions, and a surgeon's mate belonging to the 2d batallion, of the Virginia forces, being arrived in Baltimore, applied for two months' pay for themselves and the men with them, to enable them to proceed with their companies.

Resolved, That they be referred to Mr. Jonathan Hudson, who is directed to pay the said officers and their men two months' pay; and to the surgeon two months' pay and return an account to the General, and to the pay master general.

1See under February 13, ante. The resolve was printed in the Pennsylvania Packet, 18 March, 1777.

"This day there was a very interesting debate on some amendments proposed to a report of a Committee, appointed to consider of some means for preventing desertion; but the main question was concerning the jurisdiction of Congress and the States. The decision was postponed. The debate lay chiefly between Mr. Wilson, of Pennsylvania, and the Delegate from North Carolina. The opinion of a great majority was with the latter; but it was not deemed prudent to decide. N. B. This is all that I can now transmit: but as you know the opinion of Congress; and for this reason it is that I mention that a majority was in his favour." Burke's Abstract of Debates. Resolved, That it be recommended to the legislatures of the several States, not to offer or give more than at the rate of 6 per centum per annum upon any monies to be borrowed in their respective loan offices.²

¹This report is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 147, I, folio 87.
²"It was determined to give six per cent interest on money borrowed or to be borrowed on Loan Certificates. Connecticut went over to this measure and drew Georgia with it. An attempt was made to extend it to certificates to be given in payment for Lottery prizes, but rejected. The debates were long and troublesome, but unimportant. North Carolina was always against increase of interest, because the Delegate considered it as incapable of producing any money, but in the way of an emission on interest, and therefore that it was resolving to carry on the war at an interest unnecessarily increased one half, and that no sum was accumulated or could be borrowed, the acquisition of which would compensate for carrying on the war at this increased interest. The question was put in the morning for an adjournment.
Resolved, That 1,000 dollars be advanced to Major Otten-dorff, for the purpose of recruiting his corps; he to be to Philadelphia. All the Southern Delegates were against it, except Georgia, who always votes with Connecticut. The reason given, that much business of consequence was before the Congress, and it was improper to suspend it by an adjournment; that the weather was so bad and several States so circumstanced, there was very little probability of the Congress meeting in Philadelphia in several weeks; that the General was of opinion the enemy intended an attack on Philadelphia, and if they attempted it they had no force to stop them; in fine, that it would be foregoing a certainty of doing business, for a very great uncertainty. For if the only reason of any weight came from the Board of War, which was that for want of mechanics and wagons the business of their department went on very heavily at Baltimore.

This was answered by observing that an adjournment would cause an entire suspension of this and all business, and there was no probability of an early meeting at Philadelphia. There was a peevish altercation on the matter, and in order to put an end to it, the Delegate from North Carolina moved, in the right of the State, to put off the question. A fierce debate ensued, J. Adams, Dr. Witherspoon, Mr.
Wilson, Mr. Sherman and some others alleged that it must be referred to a majority, whether the rule could apply to this case, and, in short, whether the State should be allowed to exercise the right of postponing. R. H. Lee with great perspicuity and force of argument, urged the violent impropriety of putting such a question at a time when a State attempted to avail itself of a privilege referred to each by the fundamental rules of the Congress, which certainly framed its constitution; that no change should be attempted until the State had exercised its right, and the rule might afterwards be considered and amended if thought requisite. F. L. Lee observed that the rule was originally intended to prevent a majority from deciding too precipitately, and if it was submitted to the majority, then when it was proper to apply the rule, or when a State might avail itself thereof, the majority would always determine against applying it all. Mr. Haywood from South Carolina To Henry Bradford, for furnishing lodging and fuel to 126 of the Virginia troops, the sum of £310 30/90 dollars:

To Joseph Stiles, for hay and oats [and diets] to Captain Yauncey's squadron of light-horse, on their march from Virginia to join General Washington, the sum of £18 0 4½ 90 dollars:

To Robert Talbot, for victualling 48 men of the Virginia troops, the sum of £2 08 6 30/90 dollars:

Ordered, That the said accounts be paid.

Congress resumed the consideration of the report of the committee on ways and means; Whereupon, urged that he thought it a very extraordinary proposition to submit to a majority, whether that majority should be checked by a power absolutely reserved for that purpose in the constitution of Congress.

The Delegate from North Carolina declared that he would enter into no debate on the subject, 'whether he should avail himself of a right reserved to every State in the original constitution of the Congress;' that those rules must have been entered into by common consent, and nothing but common sense could dispense with them; that if a majority of Congress could vote away the rules which common consent had established, they were a body bound by no rule at all, and only governed by arbitrary discretion; if this was the case no State can be secure; a majority might vote that two, three, four, or five States should form a Congress, altho' the present rule required nine, that the votes should not be by States, but by voice individually,—in short, any the smallest number of Delegates might take upon them the whole authority of Congress: that putting the right of the State to a question was assuming to exercise an arbitrary, tyrannical discretion, and he would consider it as a violent invasion of the rights of his State, which he would endeavour to resent as became him: that if the question was at all put, he should be at no loss how to conduct himself: he would always to the best of his judgment, make a prudent use of any privilege with which he was invested, but he hoped he should always have firmness enough to maintain every the smallest privilege of the State he represented: that Gentlemen were exceedingly mistaken if they deemed him a man who would tamely suffer the smallest invasion or encroachment on her rights: that if that Assembly proceeded to so arbitrary and tyrannical an exertion of power, he would consider it as no longer that which ought to be trusted with the liberties of their fellow citizens, and he would shape his conduct accordingly. The Delegates of N. Hampshire, Maryland, Virginia, and South Carolina joined in this very strenuously, insisting that it was a most violent and arbitrary act of power to put any question at all on this matter; and the others (some individuals among them being of the same opinion) perceiving the determined resolution of the Delegate of North Carolina, to withdraw from Congress if any such question should be put,—they waived their opposition, and he exercised his right. The next day the adjournment was carried."

A petition from Thomas Moody, was read,

Ordered, That the same be referred to General Mifflin, the quarter master general.

The committee appointed to enquire into the conduct of the enemy, brought in a report which was read, as follows:

That, in every place where the enemy has been, there are heavy complaints of oppression, injury, and insult, suffered by the inhabitants, from officers, soldiers, and Americans disaffected to their country's cause. The committee found these complaints so greatly diversified, that, as it was impossible to enumerate them, so it appeared exceedingly difficult to give a distinct and comprehensive view of them, or such an account, as would not, if published, appear extremely defective, when read by the unhappy sufferers, or the country in general.

1 Goscinus Erkelen.
In order, however, in some degree, to answer the design of their appointment, they determined to divide the object of their enquiry into four parts: First, The wanton and oppressive devastation of the country, and destruction of property: Second, the inhuman treatment of those who were so unhappy as to become prisoners: Third, The savage butchery of many who had submitted or were incapable of resistance: Fourth, The lust and brutality of the soldiers in abusing of women.

They will, therefore, now briefly state, what they found to be the truth upon each of these heads separately, and subjoin to the whole, affidavits and other evidence to support their assertions.

1. The wanton and oppressive devastation of the country and destruction of property:

The whole tract of the British army is marked with desolation and a wanton destruction of property, particularly through West Chester county, in the state of New York; the towns of Newark, Elizabeth Town, Woodbridge, Brunswick, Kingston, Princeton and Trenton, in New Jersey. The fences destroyed, houses deserted, pulled in pieces or consumed by fire, and the general face of waste and devastation spread over a rich and once well cultivated and well inhabited country, would affect the most unfeeling with melancholy or compassion for the unhappy sufferers, and with indignation and resentment against the barbarous ravagers. It deserves notice, that though there are many instances of rage and vengeance against particular persons, yet, the destruction was very general and often undistinguished; those who submitted and took protections, and some who were known to favour them, having frequently suffered in the common ruin. Places and things, which, from their public nature and general utility, should have been spared by a civilized people, have been destroyed or plundered, or both. But, above all, places of worship, ministers and religious persons of some particular protestant denominations, seem to have been treated with the most rancorous hatred, and, at the same time, with the highest contempt.

2. The inhuman treatment of those who were so unhappy as to become prisoners:

The prisoners, instead of that humane treatment which those taken by the United States experienced, were, in general, treated with the greatest barbarity. Many of them were near four days kept without food altogether: When they received a supply, it was both insufficient in point of quantity and often of the worst kind: They suffered the utmost distress from cold, nakedness and close confinement: Freemen and men of substance suffered all that a generous mind could suffer from the contempt and mockery of British and foreign mercenaries: Multitudes died in prison; when they were sent out, several died in the boats, while carrying ashore, or, upon the road, attempting to go home. The committee, in the course of their enquiry, learned, that sometimes the common soldiers expressed sympathy with the prisoners, and the foreigners more than the English. But, this was seldom or never the case with the officers; nor have they been able to hear of any charitable assistance given them by the inhabitants who remained in, or resorted to the city of New York; which neglect, if universal, they believe was never known to happen in any similar case in a Christian country.

3. The savage butchery of those who had submitted and were incapable of resistance:

The committee found it to be the general opinion of the people in the neighbourhood of Princeton and Trenton, that the enemy, the day before the battle of Princeton, had determined to give no quarter.—They did not, however, obtain any clear proof, that there were any general orders for that purpose; but the treatment of several particular persons at and since that time, has been of the most shocking kind, and gives too much countenance to the supposition. Officers wounded and disabled, some of them of the first rank, were barbarously mangled or put to death. A minister of the gospel in Trenton, who neither was nor had been in arms, was massacred in cold blood, though humbly supplicating for mercy.

4. The lust and brutality of the soldiers in abusing of women.

The committee had authentic information of many instances of the most indecent treatment, and actual ravishment of married and single women; but, such is the nature of that most irreparable injury, that the persons suffering it, and their relations, though perfectly innocent, look upon it as a kind of reproach to have the facts related, and their names known. They have, however, procured some affidavits, which will be published in the appendix. The originals are lodged with the secretary of Congress.

Some complaints were made to the commanding officers upon the subject, and one affidavit made before a justice of peace; but the committee could not learn that any satisfaction was ever given, or punishment inflicted, except, that one soldier, at Pennington, was kept in custody for part of a day.
April, 1777

On the whole, the committee are sorry to say, that the cry of barbary and cruelty is but too well founded; and as, in conversation, those who are cool to the American cause, have nothing to oppose to the facts, but their being incredible, and not like what they are pleased to stile, the generosity and clemency of the English nation; the committee beg leave to observe, that one of the circumstances most frequently occurring in the enquiry, was, the opprobrious, disdainful names given to the Americans. These do not need any proof, as they occur so frequently in the newspapers printed under their direction, and in the intercepted letters of those who are officers, and call themselves gentlemen. It is easy, therefore, to see what must be the conduct of a soldiery, greedy of prey, towards a people, whom they have been taught to look upon, not as freemen defending their rights on principle, but as desperadoes and profligates, who have risen up against law and order in general, and wish the subversion of society itself. This is the most candid and charitable manner in which the committee can account for the melancholy truths which they have been obliged to report. Indeed, the same deluding principle seems to govern persons and bodies of the highest rank in Britain. For, it is worthy of notice, that not pamphleteers only, but king and parliament constantly call those acts lenity, which, on their first publication, filled this whole Continent with resentment and horror.

Resolved, That the said report be accepted; and Ordered, That the committee who brought in the report, publish the same with the affidavits.

Resolved, That a member be added to the committee on the commissary’s department, and that they be directed to confer with General Schuyler on the subject:

Resolved, That General Armstrong be requested to inspect into the state of the magazines of provisions under the care of Commissary Wharton, and make report to Congress of their kind, quantity, and condition: and that General Armstrong be authorized to call on Mr. Wharton for every information necessary to enable him to perform this duty, and, if the said magazines should be found in a perishing or neglected state, that he take proper steps for their regulation; and the said commissary and his deputies are hereby ordered to pay due obedience to his directions.¹

That the appointment of the said commissioners be made on Tuesday next.

A letter of the 27 of March, from the commissioners for settling accounts in the northern department, to the Board of Treasury, was laid before Congress, and read:

Ordered, That the same be referred to the committee appointed to devise regulations for the commissary’s department.

Resolved, That three more members be added to the said committee, and that the committee be directed to confer with Mr. Trumbull on his arrival.

The members chosen, Mr.[James] Duane, Mr. W[illiam] Smith, and Mr. [Elbridge] Gerry.
Ordered, That a copy of such parts of the above letter as relates to draughts made on the pay master for stock, &c. taken by officers, and such other parts as relate to irregular draughts made, be sent by the Board of Treasury to General Gates.

The committee appointed to enquire into the mode heretofore observed by officers in making up their pay rolls, and to prepare a resolution for preventing any abuses therein, brought in a report, which was read:

The Committee appointed to inquire into the mode heretofore observed by officers in making up their payrolls and to prepare a resolution for preventing any abuses therein.

That it is represented to your Committee that Abstracts heretofore made of the Companies in the Continental Battalions have truly stated the time of Service of every Officer and Soldier; but where any Soldier died or deserted in the Interval between the monthly pay days, the pay due to all such Soldiers remained in the Hands of the paying Officer unless any representative claimed in right of such as died.

That when any Soldier died indebted to the paying Officer, it was usual to let the name of such Soldier remain on the pay List until a sufficiency accrued to satisfy the Debt.

The Soldiers have been enlisted on New Establishments before the time of Service on former Enlistments has been Completed, and that double pay has been drawn from the Treasury for the portion of the former time of service which was unexpired at the time of the last enlistment.

That Officers who are in advance to their Soldiers must lose such advance, because by the present Establishment they cannot stop the same from the soldiers, their pay being paid by a Regimental paymaster.

Whereupon your Committee beg leave to recommend the following resolutions.

Resolved, That all pay and other allowance due to any deceased officer or soldier of the Continental army shall be paid into the Treasury, in order that the same may be safely kept to be accounted for to the lawful Representatives of such Officers and Soldiers.

That when any officer or soldier shall desert, all pay and other allowances due to such officer or soldier at the time of desertion, shall be deemed forfeited to the United States, and the same shall be paid into the Treasury by the Paymaster.

That there is no just foundation for the practice of leaving the pay due to dead men and deserters in the hands of the paying officers; but that the same ought to have been paid into the Treasury. The pay due to dead men to be for the use of the Representatives, and that due to deserters for the use of the United States. Therefore that the several paymasters be directed to procure from the several battalions exact lists of all persons who have died or deserted, with the amount of pay and other allowances due to each, and the names and rank of the respective paying officers.

That there is no just foundation for the practice of letting the pay of deceased soldiers run on until officers to whom they were indebted are indemnified. Therefore that all moneys received by any officer in consequence thereof ought to be refunded, to effect which the paymasters ought to procure exact accounts of the time when the several deceased soldiers of the continental battalions died, in order that by comparing the same with the abstracts the sums of money drawn after their decease may be known and the officers made accountable for the same.

That all double pay drawn for men who enlisted on a new establishment before the time of service of a former enlistment was expired ought to be refunded. To effect which the abstracts ought to be carefully compared by the paymaster general, or deputy paymaster general, and a particular report made on the premises to the treasury, in order that the paying officers may be made accountable.

That the officers who have heretofore paid the companies be permitted to pay them, until the end of the month which began before the establishment of regimental paymasters commenced.

All which is humbly submitted.¹

Ordered, To lie on the table.

A remonstrance of Joseph Hugg and Israel Morris, Jun² was read.

Resolved, That General Washington be directed to take effectual measures for removing all provisions, cattle, cattle, carriages, and forage, which he may think in danger of falling into the hands of the enemy, particularly in the parts of the country through which their route may lie, should they attempt to march; and that he give directions to all officers employed on this duty, to be careful not to deprive the inhabitants of what may be necessary for their immediate subsistence; and to cause all provisions, cattle, carriages, and forage, removed, to be appraised to a just valuation, that the owners may be paid for the same.

The Board of War brought in a report, which was taken into consideration; Whereupon,

Resolved, That he be appointed accordingly.

Resolved, That an order for 200,000 dollars be drawn on the commissioner of the loan office for the State of New York, in favour of Jonathan Trumbull, Jun: deputy pay master general, for the use of the army in the northern department; the said deputy pay master general to be accountable.

The committee appointed to devise ways and means for suppressing the dangerous spirit of toryism in the counties of Somerset, Worcester [Maryland] and Sussex [Delaware] and preventing the disaffected persons therein from taking measures prejudicial to the cause of the United States, brought in their report, which was taken into consideration; Whereupon,

That the Counties above mentioned consist at least betwixt four and five thousand Men, two thirds of whom are highly disaffected to the Measures pursued by the United States for the Establishment of their Freedom and Independance.

¹This report is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 147, I, folio 145.
April, 1777

That from the assiduous Arts of Persons of Influence amongst the Malignants, and from the Want of Spirited and decided Measures an ill judged Lenity in the States of Delaware and Maryland the dangerous Spirit of Toryism has acquired Strength, and at several Times has broke out into open Acts of Treason against the Liberties of the United States. That from the Maratime Situation of these Counties, an easy Access is open to the Enemies Armed Vessels, and that the notorious Disaffection of the Inhabitants will naturally invite the Enemy to land Part of their Force in those Counties, where they probably would be joined by a considerable Body of Insurgents who only wait an Opportunity to fall upon the defenceless Sons of Freedom in that Quarter, and to perpetrate those Acts of Cruelty and Devastation which have hitherto been consequent to such Insurrections.

That a timely Attention to prevent these Evils is not only necessary from these Considerations, but likewise from the ill Consequences which may accrue to the General Cause, should such an Insurrection break out at the Time when the Enemy with the main Body of the Army may be bending their Force against the City of Philadelphia.

To avert these impending Evils the Committee beg leave to submit to the consideration of Congress the following Resolutions.

Resolved, That it be earnestly recommended to the legislative or executive authorities of the states of Delaware and Maryland, forthwith to apprehend and remove all persons of influence, or of desperate characters, within the counties of Sussex, Somerset, and Worcester, who have betrayed or manifested a disaffection to the American cause, to some remote or secure place or places within their respective States; there to be secured without any person having access to them, unless by license first obtained from such civil or military officer as the government of the respective States shall think proper to appoint for that purpose: to take away the fire-arms of all such of the inhabitants of the counties above-mentioned, as have not hitherto manifested an attachment to the cause of America, excepting such in the counties of Worcester and Somerset, in the state of Maryland, as may have complied with the proclamation issued by the said State, in the month of February last, the said arms to be disposed of by the respective States as shall be deemed most conducive to the general weal: to enact laws appointing commissioners in each of the counties above-mentioned, whose business it shall be to make inventories, and to take charge of the personal estates of the persons so removed, and to receive the rents arising from their real estates, in order that the same may be appropriated as a fund for their maintenance, till the government of the respective States shall otherwise direct; and vesting the said commissioners with full and adequate powers to enquire into, detect, and defeat, all plots or conspiracies formed in the respective counties against the liberties of America.

And, for facilitating the expeditious execution of the above resolutions,

Resolved, That the governor of the State of Maryland be authorized to detain the weakest continental batallion raised in the state of Maryland, till further order of Congress; and that it be recommended to the executive authority of the state of Maryland, forthwith, to embody three hundred of the militia of the said State, and to the executive authority of the State of Delaware, one hundred of their militia, the said militia to co-operate with the batallion of the continental troops, to obey the orders of the officer commanding the same, and to continue in service so long as the joint executive authorities of the States of Delaware and Maryland shall think necessary.¹

granting pardons, &c. and otherwise aided and abetted the enemies of the United States: And, that he be for supplying the army with fresh beef, be consolidated: and that Mr. Trumbull ||be directed to|| confer with the said committee.

The Committee appointed to confer with the Commissary General beg leave to report,

That your Committee are informed by Mr. Commissary there are now at the Head of Elk 3,000 barrels of salted fish and 300 barrels of salted meat, and that he expects from Virginia at the same place 300,000 w of Bacon and 1,000 bbls. of Pork.

That at Lancaster and on the route here are near 1,500 bbls. of Salted meat.

That these provisions are daily arriving from the above places to this City, from whence they are transporting by water to Trenton with all possible dispatch, and from Trenton teams are provided to forward them to the army as fast as they reach that place.

That at Carlisle are 1,500 bbls. of salted meat, which the most effectual means possible shall be immediately taken to forward to camp.

That Mr. Commissary is of opinion, the army is at present supplied with three days provisions of fresh meat out of seven, and that this latter supply will be increased in a short time.

That measures have been taken to bring on provisions from the eastward where 15,000 bbls. of salted meat are laid up in Connecticut, and 15,000 in Massachusetts Bay exclusive of a full supply for the Northern Army.

That Mr. Commissary is not under apprehension of flour being Wanted, unless the army should go into N. England.

That upon the whole of these facts Mr. Commissary thinks there is no danger of the army suffering for want of provisions, unless it should happen within 48 hours from this time; which it is not probable will be the case, as 80 bbls. of salt meat were sent on Monday last from hence by land and 200 bbls. of salted meat have been forwarded by water yesterday and this day, and that an equal quantity hath been ordered from Eastown, so as to be by this time with the army.

That the reason of the present appearance of an immediate want of provisions for the army has arisen from the Stores laid up at Lebanon being removed to Carlisle, and those in this City to Lancaster, as it is said by order of Congress, and that in making this removal, it was omitted to regard the present supply of the army by leaving a sufficient quantity for that purpose.

That M[ster] Commissary proposes to repair to Head Quarters without delay.¹

Resolved, That a committee of five six be appointed to consider ways and means of speedily reinforcing General Washington's army.

Ordered, That the committee confer with General Schuyler and General Mifflin on the subject.

The Board of Treasury reported, that there is due,

That there should be paid to the honble. That there should be advanced to Colonel Daniel Morgan, of the 11 Virginia regiment, for the bounty of a volunteer company inlisted to the said regiment, the sum of 1,800 dollars; he to be accountable:

That the Rev. Mr. John Nevelling officiated as chaplain to nine New Jersey battalions for one month and six days, at 50 dollars per month, amounting to 59 77/90 dollars; of which he received of the pay master 33 30/90 dollars, and that a balance of 26 47/90 should be paid him.1

The Board of War reported,
That having enquired into the case of Major Elisha Painter, it appeared by the evidence produced, that the objections made against his appointment to the office of major in Colonel Seth Warner’s regiment, and the complaint of uneasiness occasioned thereby, are without any just foundation, and that nothing is alleged, or appears to have been done by him, to forfeit his right to the said office; and this Board knows of no such office vacant in any other regiment, to which he can be appointed by Congress: Whereupon,
Resolved, That the resolution of the 18 January last, removing the said Elisha Painter from any command in the said Colonel Seth Warner’s regiment, be repealed; and that he return to his command in the said regiment as major thereof, unless General Washington shall think proper to appoint him to some other office or employment in the army not inferior to his present rank.

and conferred with them on the business aforesaid; that the said president and council gave assurance to your Committee that they were willing and desirous to comply with the requisition of Congress for the aid of the militia aforesaid, and that every mean in their power would be used to draw forth the number required: but they apprehended that this might be more probably effected, by fixing the place of their rendezvous near the Delaware, within the said State, and which would not be more than six or seven miles distant from the general rendezvous proposed at Chester: that your committee, with the approbation of General Mifflin, acceded to the proposal of fixing the place of rendezvous for the militia of the said State within the same, as the most probable means of obtaining their aid and service, and beg leave to recommend the same to Congress as equally advantageous to the public service;

Agreeable to the order of the day, Congress resolved itself into a committee of the whole, to take into consideration the letter from General Gates, and the papers enclosed ||referred to them;|| and, after some time, the president resumed the chair, and Mr. F[rancis] L[ight-foot] Lee reported, that the committee have had under consideration the letter and papers to them referred, and have come to sundry resolutions, which he was ordered to report.

their resolutions of the 14 of this month, for compleating and forwarding the regiments which he has already ordered for that service, it being the opinion of Congress, that a delay in this matter will be attended with the loss of that important pass:

That the convention of New York be requested to give all possible aid of the militia of their State, to keep open the communication between Albany and Ticonderoga; and that an extract of General Gates's letter of the 19, to General Washington, relative to the increase of tories, be transmitted to the said convention:

That General Gates be informed of the measures taken by Congress to reinforce him with men, and to supply him with money; that he be informed, that it is not the wish of Congress that he retain possession of that part of Ticonderoga which lies on the west side of Lake Champlain, if, in his judgment, the great point of preventing the enemy from penetrating the country may be better obtained by applying his whole force to the strengthening and securing Fort Independence and the water defence of Lake George:

That, if Major General Gates shall be of opinion, that there are not a sufficient number of carpenters employed on the vessels at Lake George, he be authorized and directed immediately to engage as many as he shall think necessary for compleating, with the utmost despatch, the water-craft now erecting on that lake:

That General Washington be directed to send to Congress the names of the general officers ordered to repair to Ticonderoga, and the names and number of the regiments under marching orders for that place:

That General St. Clair be informed, by express, of the approach of the enemy to Ticonderoga, and that he be directed to repair, without loss of time, to that place.
Resolved, That the commissioners of Indian affairs at Albany, be directed to accept of the offer made by the Oneidas, in their speech of the 19th of March, to Colonel Elmore, to send scouts to watch the motions of the enemy at Oswegatchie; and that a copy of the said speech be transmitted to the commissioners at Albany.¹

Sundry amendments being offered to the resolutions passed on the muster master’s department,

That if any officer shall not, within one month after application for that purpose, render such accounts, the regimental pay master requiring the same, shall make report thereof to the commander in chief of the department, who shall order a court-martial on such officer, [and also on such other officer as shall be guilty of embezzling the public money;]¹ and the fact being ascertained by their reports, shall immediately cause him to be cashiered, and a copy of the report delivered to the regimental pay master, to be transmitted to the State to which he belongs, that such State may give proper orders for compelling the delinquent officer to account in a court of justice:

Resolved, therefore, That so much of all the accounts, above described, as shall be approved by the commissioners, and not objected to by the general, shall be paid, by his warrant, in the manner the said resolution prescribes.

Congress resumed the consideration of the report on the quarter master general's department; Whereupon,

Resolved, 1. That the quarter master general of the army be authorized and empowered to appoint one commissary of forage for the army, and one for each of the military departments thereof, with such and so many forage masters as he shall judge necessary.

2. That the duty of the commissary of forage shall be to purchase such quantities of forage, and store the same in such magazines as the quarter master general, or the deputy quarter master general, of any department, shall, from time to time, order and direct. That the commissaries shall conform themselves in making purchases to such rules and regulations as shall be prescribed to them by the quarter master general, or deputy quarter master general of the department to which they shall severally belong.

3. That all forage purchased by any commissary of forage, and delivered into any magazine, shall be received by the forage master thereunto appointed, who shall give his receipts therefor, specifying the sort, quantity, and quality, as a voucher for the commissary of forage, to be by him produced to the quarter master general or deputy quarter master general of the department in support of his account.

4. That the commissaries of forage shall make a monthly return to the quarter master general or deputy quarter master general of the department, of all forage by them purchased, specifying to what forage master, and into which magazine the same was delivered, that the forage master may stand charged therewith.

5. That no forage master, to whose care any magazine of forage shall be committed, shall issue any part thereof unless by a written order of the commander in chief, the commander in chief of the department, the commanding officer of the post where such magazine may be established, the quarter master general or deputy quarter master general of the department, or one of his assistants, the waggon master general, or any other waggon master; such orders to specify for whose use the forage is intended; and every such order to be filed by the forage master, and a regular entry thereof made in a book to be by him kept for that purpose, as a voucher for the expenditure of the forage by him received.

6. That the forage masters shall make monthly returns to the quarter master general and deputy quarter master general, of the departments they belong to, of the state of their magazines, specifying the quantity left in store at the first and every succeeding return, the quantity received since the last return, the expenditure since such return, and what remains on hand.

7. And whereas it frequently happens that there is a necessity to detain hired carriages, the owners whereof were to find their own forage, far beyond the time for which the owners thereof agreed to serve, and who, if their own forage is expended, must have recourse to the public magazines, it is resolved, that such persons so detained and become destitute of forage, shall, upon the written order of any of the officers mentioned in the fifth resolution, be supplied out of the public magazines; and that the waggon master, before he signs the discharge for any such hired carriage, shall direct the forage master to endorse thereon the quantity, sort and quality of the forage furnished such person, that the same may be deducted out of the wages due to the owner of such hired carriage; all which deductions shall, by the quarter master general or deputy quarter master general of the department, be carried to the credit of the forage masters' account, who shall have furnished the forage.

8. That if the commissary of forage in any department should be ordered to procure such large quantities of forage as to render it impossible for him to do it without assistance, the quarter master general or deputy quarter master general of the department shall direct one or more of his assistants to aid the commissary of forage, pointing out the districts in which they are severally to purchase, that one may not enhance the price by bidding above another.

9. Whereas, notwithstanding the orders that have been from time to time issued by general officers of our army, to prevent the loss and embezzlement of intrenching tools, and other military stores, great waste hath been made; to prevent which, for the future, it is resolved, that every commissary of stores, store keeper, or person to whose charge and care any military stores of what kind soever shall be committed, shall pass his receipt for, and stand charged to be accountable for the same, and shall not issue any of them without taking a receipt therefor, the receiver promising to be accountable: and if any person having received any such stores, shall lose or embezzle the same, the commissary, store keeper, or person by whom they were delivered, shall charge him with the value thereof, and transmit a copy of such charge to the pay master general or deputy pay master general of the department, who is to charge the same to the pay master of the corps such person may belong to, unless it shall appear that such loss happened without any blameable negligence or omission: and if any person in the continental service shall sell or otherwise dispose of any stores committed to his care, without a written order for so doing, issued by the commander in chief or commander in chief of the department, or by a general officer commanding at a separate post, he shall be punished for theft.

10. That the waggon master general of the army, or waggon master in any of the departments thereof, shall receive from the quarter master general or deputy quarter master general of any department, all such horses, cattle, and carriages as the service may require; and that neither the waggon master general, or any other waggon master shall, on any account, presume to purchase any horses, cattle, or carrriages for the public service, without the express order of the commander in chief, the commander in chief of the department, the quarter master general or deputy quarter master general of a department; nor shall the waggon master general, or any other waggon master, hire any horses, cattle or carriages, unless by the authority aforesaid, or by that of an assistant deputy quarter master general.

11. That the quarter master general appoint such assistants and make such arrangements for conducting the business of his department, as to him and to the commander in chief, and commander of the departments, shall seem most conducive to the public weal; that a copy of such arrangement, specifying the names of the assistants, commissaries of forage, waggon master, forage masters, and clerks of the several departments, be transmitted to the Board of War: and that every assistant of the quarter master general of the army, and every assistant of the deputy quarter master general of the several departments thereof, shall make monthly returns of every article, of what kinds soever, that may be in or at any of the forts, encampments, magazines, or places in the district, committed to his care, to the deputy quarter master general of the department, noting what is good, what is reparable, and what is unfit for farther service, in separate columns; from which returns, the deputy quarter master general shall make one general return, in which shall be specified the total of all the articles in every district within his department; one copy whereof shall be monthly transmitted to the Board of War, one to the commander in chief of the department, and one to the quarter master general; from which returns, the quarter master general shall make a general return, specifying what is in each department and every district thereof; one copy whereof shall be monthly transmitted to the Board of War, one to the commander in chief, and one to the commander of each department.

12. That every assistant quarter master, commissary of forage, waggon master general, forage master, and every other person employed in the quarter master general’s branch, who shall neglect or refuse to make such monthly returns, shall be dismissed the service by the quarter master general or the deputy quarter master general of the department to which such delinquent belongs.

13. And in order that all deputy quarter masters general and assistants may make their returns in such a manner as to avoid that great confusion which has heretofore arisen from a want of method, the quarter master general is to furnish his deputies with a form, copies whereof they are to deliver to the assistants and to every person in the quarter master general’s branch who may be called upon for a return.

14. That the quarter master general and the deputy quarter masters general in the several departments, have full power and be authorized, with the consent of the commander in chief, or the commander of the department, to dismiss any person by them employed, who shall refuse or neglect any duty enjoined by the foregoing resolutions, or any other duty he may be charged with, and to appoint others in the stead of such as may be dismissed.

15. The general and commander in chief of our armies, and the commander of any department thereof, shall be allowed as much forage for their horses and those of their suite as the service may require.

16. That a major general and brigadier general, not having the command of a separate department, shall each be allowed forage for six horses for themselves, their aids-de-camp, or brigade majors and servants.

17. That the commander in chief, and the commander in any separate department, be authorized to allow such quantities of forage, and for and during such times as they shall think proper, to the quarter master general and his deputies, to the muster master general and his deputies, the chief engineer and his assistants, the commissary general and his deputies, the director general of the hospital, his subs and surgeons general, to the adjutant general and his deputies, to the colonels, lieutenant colonels, majors, adjutants, quarter masters, and surgeons of regiments, and to provost marshals, or to such and so many of the before mentioned officers and their deputies as the service shall necessarily require; Provided, always, that if any of the officers abovementioned, their deputies or assistants, should be allowed forage in consequence of any general orders hereafter given, and should nevertheless not keep any or so many horses as they would be permitted to draw forage for, that in such case, no forage shall be issued for more horses than they really have, nor shall they at any time thereafter be allowed any forage as back allowance or any money in lieu thereof.

18. That a deputy quarter master general be appointed to each department, and one to each grand division of the army; the rank of the former to be that of a colonel, of the latter, that of a lieutenant colonel.

19. That the quarter master general, with the approbation of the commander in chief, or commander in any separate department, appoint a competent number of deputy quarter masters general, a waggon master general, and so many waggons masters, as the service, from time to time, may require, and make a return to the Board of War, of the names of the persons so appointed.

The committee to whom the petition from the town of Charlestown, was referred, reported, “That they have duly attended to the several facts set forth in the said petition, and while they lament the miserable distressed condition of the petitioners, reduced, from affluence and ease, to want and penury, by the calamities of war, they regret the inability of the United States to afford the solicited relief. Though the estimation of the damages sustained may be very moderate, and the great and early sufferings of the inhabitants of Charlestown entitle them to particular attention, yet the committee apprehend, that if Congress were to pay that valuation, claims, much more extensive, and of a similar nature, will be made by other sufferers, and subject the United States to the payment of sums of money, which, in the present exigency of their affairs, cannot be spared from the support of the present just and necessary war."

The Committee are of opinion that Congress should recommend to the Legislatures of the several states, to take such measures as to them shall seem most proper for the immediate relief of their respective subjects, who by the ravages of our enemy and the fate of war may be reduced to the wretched condition of the Inhabitants of Charlestown."

Resolved, That Congress agree to the said report.
